Theology of the New Testament takes a balanced approach in response to these challenges. Frank Thielman presents a theology of the New Testament that is careful to take into account the cultural and historical circumstances surrounding each book and the New Testament as a whole. He not only examines each book's theological content individually, but also in relation to the rest of the New Testament, particularly within each of the three theological units that comprise the New Testament: the ...

The new theology can do this because everything is in the non rational realm. It's mystical. To the new theologian, opposites can be true in some non-rational mystical way. This also makes Satan little more than an idea or myth, which is exactly how the humanist views non physical entities. Satan is very successful in convincing people that he doesn't really exist. Even many evangelical Christians view Satan as essentially a myth.

Professor of Theology & Director of Graduate Programs in the New Evangelization - Instructor Bio " All the baptized, whatever their position in the Church or their level of instruction in the faith, are agents of evangelization, and it would be insufficient to envisage a plan of evangelization to be carried out by professionals while the rest of the faithful would simply be passive recipients.

Theology of the New Evangelization - Sacred Heart Major ...

The publication of a major work on New Testament theology is always an event worth noting. The approach is partly historical, partly almost systematic. Schnelle begins by discussing "Meaning Formation" as the key to interpretation of any text. He argues against a neutral "history of religions approach," preferring the position that "Christian theology deals with the God who has revealed ...
