SAMPLE READING TEXT - 2

Now, try your hand at note-making and summarizing with the following passage on "Ants". Don't forget to keep a track of your AMP as you read along. It facilitates understanding of different ideas.

- (1) All ants have a varied diet. This is a strong point in the struggle for a livelihood, as it enables them to use whatever food is, for the time, abundant and easy to find and collect. In this way a varied diet cushions them against unpredictable changes in food supply. All our species eat some sort of prey, but they will also pick up crumbs of cake, bread, cheese or fruit that they find lying about near picnic sites, or in parks or gardens.
- (2) Ants eat worms, centipedes and spiders, they also eat insect larvae, and insect adults such as flies, moths and springtails. Such small animals do not all make easy game for ants; they are usually much quicker than the ant itself and they have an extraordinary number of ways of escaping. Some flick their bodies violently and some others give out a pungent repellent substance.
- (3) If ants, or indeed any hunting animal were too clever at catching their prey they would eventually destroy the species completely and suffer themselves in turn. That is one reason why, in nature, it is usually the weak and disabled that are caught and eaten. The well-formed, alert and vigorous ones can escape and survive to keep the species going. The prey avoids destruction in this way and maintain a good breeding stock which provides a regular food supply for its predators. The predators can even be thought of as beneficial agent that prevents overcrowding of the prey by clearing up, neatly and effectively, all the superfluous individuals.

(a) On the basis of your reading of the above passage complete the following notes, using headings and sub-headings. Use recognizable abbreviations (wherever necessary - minimum 4) and a format you consider suitable. Also supply an appropriate title to it.
